THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW WHEN BUYING GARAGE CABINETS...

NOT ALL GARAGE CABINETS ARE CREATED EQUAL!

1 - MOST GARAGE CABINETS ARE NOT DESIGNED TO MOVE!

Many companies use staples and melamine wood to secure their cabinets to the walls of your garage - permanently!

The cabinets themselves are often stapled together, meaning they will crack and break if you try to disassemble them.

So, when you sell your home, your cabinets get left behind...

Bigfoot Garage Cabinets are built using a boltless metal frame and strong wooden panels that can be quickly and easily dismantled with a rubber mallet.

Our cabinets are basically a piece of furniture that you can move at ease without damaging them!

2 - MANY GARAGE CABINETS HAVE TERRIBLE SHELVES!

Many cabinets support their shelves with weak, plastic hardware.

This not only limits how much weight these shelves can support, but it also leads to warping and long-term damage.

Don't get stuck with cabinets that deteriorate over time!

Bigfoot Garage Cabinets use a heavy-duty metal frame to support the entire shelf!

This allows you to store heavy items and ensures that the cabinets and shelves will stand the test of time!

3 - MOST GARAGE CABINETS CANNOT BE CLEANED UNDERNEATH

Most companies build their garage cabinets straight into the wall of your garage and they end up sitting directly on your garage floor.

This means that when cleaning your garage floor or you have a small flood, they are likely to get wet. This damages cabinets by causing the wood to expand and swell up, which looks horrible!

Bigfoot Garage Cabinets are designed to have six inches of clearance to allow for cleaning your garage floor and preventing damage to your cabinets.

4 - TRADITIONAL GARAGE CABINETS HAVE WALLS INSIDE

This means that your storage space is limited to each individual section, making it difficult to store long or large items.

Why limit your garage cabinet's storage potential?

Bigfoot Garage Cabinets are designed with wide open compartments inside, allowing you to store longer items inbetween sections.

5 - MANY CABINETS HAVE DOORS THAT DON'T FULLY OPEN

Many companies use hinges that limit how far the cabinet doors can open, which can be a pain!

This can make loading and unloading difficult and also runs the risk of breaking off the doors.

Bigfoot Garage Cabinets are built using tough barrel hinges allowing the doors to open all the way - making it easier to load and unload.
